

Problem Statement:

- While there are lots of music listening apps, most of them only allow you to track your music in an end of the year recap.

What the problem is:

- There's a lot of music listening apps out there and all of them have an end of the year recap for how many minutes of music you are listening to and who you are listening to. There are not many apps out there that could track your minutes on music and the songs that you listen to.

Who is experiencing this problem:

- The people who are experiencing this problem are people who listen to a lot of music and want to see how many minutes they have listened to so far this year, month, week, or day. They also want to see who they have listened to during these minutes and those songs.

How it became a problem:

- This problem came about because sometimes you want to see how long you've listened to that person that day or week. A song you were trying to remember would be on that app if you had that app. Now that song is gone unless you know where it came from.
